

FUJI HUNT PHOTOGRAPHIC CHEMICALS
ROLLING MEADOWS, ILLINOIS

Fuji Hunt Photographic Chemicals of Rolling Meadows, Illinois, makes chemicals, such as developers and fixers, for the photographic and graphic arts industries. The facility was certified to ISO 14001 in 1997 and is also certified to ISO 9002.

ENVIRONMENTAL PERFORMANCE

Past Accomplishments

Fuji Hunt proved its commitment to environmental performance in the areas of hazardous waste and plastic recycling. In the past 2 years, the facility:

- Reduced hazardous waste per million gallons of product by 47% through training employees and developing quality and environmental procedures.
- Reduced solid waste by increasing plastic recycling 28% through including all departments in the recycling program.

Future Commitments

Fuji Hunt also committed to continued environmental improvement through reductions in energy, water, and materials use, and also through an increase in recycling. By 2003, the facility will:

- Reduce energy use per million gallons produced by 5% through employee training and purchasing energy efficient motors and other electrical equipment.
- Reduced solid waste by increasing cardboard recycling 5% per year through training employees.
- Reduce water use by recycling 1 million gallons of water through installing a recycle storage tank for non-contact cooling water, implementing recycle procedures for cooling water, implementing a "rinse only" program, training employees, and continuing to modify and improve washdown checklists.
- Reduce materials use by 5% per year through employee training and awareness and updating non-conforming product procedures.
